

Masters of Science in Nursing (MSN) Program Outcomes

- I. Advocating for compassionate patient-centered care with a commitment to serve vulnerable populations
- II. Leading and evaluating safe and effective change for improved quality in practice and health care systems
- III. Advancing a culture of excellence through lifelong learning and scholarly inquiry in a complex health care system
- IV. Applying ethical and policy analyses to assess, intervene, and evaluate care delivery in and across healthcare systems
- V. Fostering and leading collaborative interprofessional care teams to provide individual, family and population based care
- VI. Navigating and integrating services across the healthcare system that promote ethical, cost-effective, and innovative change
- VII. Translating evidence into practice within an interprofessional healthcare system
- VIII. Using communication and information technology to collaborate with healthcare consumers and providers across the healthcare system